Based in Dakar, Senegal, AirlinePros Central and West Africa covers seven countries – Cameroon, Cote d'Ivoire, Democratic Republic of Congo, The Gambia, Benin, Guinea, and Senegal. All the countries in these regions are rich in history, culture, and natural diversity - each country having its unique attributes that contribute to Africa's vibrant mosaic.

While Central Africa is characterized by dense rainforests, rivers, and a tropical climate, in countries like the Democratic Republic of Congo, West Africa features a more varied landscape – from the arid Sahel and Sahara Desert in the north to savannas and coastal rainforests in Cote d'Ivoire and Ghana.

Flying Carpet Learn & Earn Program Announced at the Africa Youth in Tourism Summit

The 'one and only' pan-African youth and innovation challenge on the continent, this event is a trailblazer in the travel and tourism sector. The Africa Youth in Tourism Innovation Summit (AYTIS) and Challenge is held in Windhoek, Namibia, and highlights the importance of youth innovation and entrepreneurship in tourism development across Africa. The latest edition, which saw rousing participation by both students and young professionals alike, promises to offer significant opportunities for economic growth, cultural exchange, and sustainable development.

Flying Carpet's game-changing 'Learn & Earn' Program was officially launched by Achma Asokan Foster, Group CEO, AirlinePros International, the leading GSA, and Flying Carpet, a digital destination marketing and online travel portal.

As we all know, air travel is going through the sky, and the numbers have surpassed pre-pandemic figures in most places. As with any industry growing at the rate that air travel is, there will be a need for many trained personnel to support this sector. Just some tip of the iceberg projections: While Boeing expects the commercial aircraft fleet to double by 2042 and says close to 650,000 pilots will be needed, Airbus estimates the pilot number also close to 600,000.

Pieter Elbers, CEO of IndiGo, among the fastest-growing airlines in the world, and one of our airline partners, put it very succinctly in a recent interview: "Every one rupee invested in aviation returns more than three rupees to the broader economy." In his typical illustrative manner, driving further home the point, Elbers also noted that one aircraft generates 100 direct jobs and 600 related jobs. Though he said this within the Indian context, these numbers are not way off the mark elsewhere. Besides IndiGo's record-setting order of 500 aircraft in 2023, many other airline majors have been on an ordering spree which reinstates the array of opportunities that will come by directly or indirectly in the aviation sector.
